

Empower all Learners to Succeed with an Equitable Curriculum

At 3PV Consulting, we believe that all learners deserve access to a high-quality, equitable curriculum.

A curriculum is the heart of your educational or professional development program. It defines what will be learned, how it will be learned, and how material will be assessed. A well-designed curriculum is essential for learners' success, but it can be challenging to design and maintain. 3PV Consulting offers a comprehensive range of curriculum design and review services to help you create and deliver materials that align with your institution's goals, meet the needs of your learners, and prepare them for success in your institution and the world around them.

Work Examples

3PV has a team of experienced curriculum designers and reviewers that bring over 60 years of experience and have a deep understanding of the latest educational trends and research. Some examples include:

Designing a 90-hour professional development course for state educators to identify and address disparities in K-12 student achievement and educator professional skills. The curriculum was designed by evaluating data on student outcomes by race, ethnicity, language, ability, and socioeconomic status.

Reviewing and revising a curriculum for an independent filmmaker, co-creating a programmatic strategy to align the historical film about rural community organizing with the interests of contemporary youth.

Implementing a master's degree program for over 1,500 P-12 classroom teachers seeking to transform their instruction to reflect DEI goals. In addition, the course guided teachers through an understanding of their role in developing and executing educational policies that were urgent to their professional concerns.
